

Flynn's flying high – and it's thanks to Pro Golf IQ

DALBY Golf Club prodigy Lawry Flynn spent the past six months training and preparing for what was to be his biggest golfing championship event of the year.

Little did he know by the end of it he would have an even greater challenge ahead of him in November.

Flynn was last month crowned the Queensland Schools 12 years and Under Golf State Champion following a first-class display over the four-day tournament.

Playing golf below his handicap of 9.5 suggests at both Redcliffe and Northlakes golf courses in the Sunshine Coast region, Flynn fired a total gross score of 243 to finish with a whopping seven-shot lead to take the title.

It's a wonderful accolade for not only Flynn, but for Dalby State High School and the Darling Downs Schools who Lawry represented as part of the 2010 Darling Downs Schools Golf Team.

Flynn became the second Darling Downs and Dalby State High student to claim the state honour, following in the footsteps of professional David Gleeson in 1994 when he won the under-19 division.

The only 2010 Darling Downs Schools team member named in the Queensland Schools 2010 Squad, Flynn will now go on to compete at the School Sport Australia National Championships in the 12 years and Under division to be held in Toowoomba from November 7-11.

And while he obviously has a natural talent for the game, Flynn put his recent success largely down to his mental preparation – an advantage he says he gains from using the revolutionary Pro Golf IQ audio program.

"To prepare for the Queensland Schools 12 years and Under State Golf Championships I revisited Session Six from the Pro Golf IQ program," Flynn said.

"Firstly I obtained course maps of both Redcliffe and Northlakes using Google Earth so I could look at the layouts of each course. After discussing each hole with my Dad, I then decided that Session Six was the best component for me to use for my preparation.

"This session helped me to remember where the hazards, bunkers, distances were and also the shape/slope of the fairways. The night before I played my first round I again used Session Six and followed it up with the Enforcer.

"Then each night I studied the Enforcer prior to every game. As the last round was at Northlakes, I again revisited Session Six after looking at my course map then followed up with the Enforcer program. By using both Session Six and the Enforcer I truly believe that this helped me keep 100 percent focused throughout the four days of tournament play."

Pro Golf IQ is a new program which gets your mind into optimum shape for golf. A safe, highly advanced and scientifically proven system consisting of five simply weekly audio training programs in the comfort of your own home, Pro Golf IQ coaches you to think like a pro and get into the zone every shot.

Flynn only took up the program a few months ago, but his level of improvement has been astonishing and with some added assistance from his coach, Links Hope Island Head PGA Professional Peter Cote, Flynn is working fast towards achieving his dream – to one day turn professional.

"Through my coaching and training process combined with the effectiveness of using the Pro Golf IQ Program, I've been able to achieve my goals as I go," Flynn said.

"To think in January I was a 15-handicapper and now I am off nine and I am only 12.

"I also cannot believe that I made the QLD Schools 2010 Golf Team and won the individual event as well.

"I know Pro Golf IQ helped me achieve my goals as I could hear the voices from it in my head telling me that I could do it. At no time did I let frustration kick in as I just wanted to play my best golf and enjoy the experience even if I seemed very serious out on the course.

"I am still in shock. Golf is a lot of hard work but it's worth it when you enjoy it and achieve success."
